As much as I want to judge a game based on its actual content and gameplay, I simply can't for this title.

Why?

Because it crashes at launch, every single time. I'm not alone in this issue, a quick check of the forums shows a thread with several people reporting.

If I had to say based on the screenshots alone I's aay think about it. It certainly looks good, it looks better than Railworks and Trainz, but those two titles (and a host of others not on Steam) have the massive advantage of being playable.

So, currently, as of right now it's not worth it. If it gets fixed I'll actually check out the game's content, the furthest I've got is an error screen on launch so far

If you've read this far, go grab a cookie or a sandwich and thank ya

If you want the short version, look up at the top. Not recommended.. It should say Not Recommended....YET

Because when this gets fixed I have a feeling it may well turn out to be a sleeper gem of a simulator...but for now save your money and wait for a fixed version to be uploaded to Steam or find a workaround yourself.. Do NOT buy this game nor its free pay-to-play counterpart, Super Monday Night Combat.

The developer, Uber Entertainment, has abandoned support for this game for more than a year; not officially, mind you, but dead silence on anything from the company on the MNC/SMNC front as they are concentrating support on another game of theirs.

While this is a fun, balanced 3rd person MOBA, mixing Team Fortress 2 and DOTA, as well as being one of the few games that is not only ACTUALLY hilarious, unlike other games where the jokes are funny once and never again, this has such an extensive library of well-written lines, it is sad that the developer decided to sabotage the game for a quick buck via the F2P & in-game store model.

Save your money.. A really charming game with an interesting defense system. The game is really fast paced and challenging. Don't expect this game to be relaxed.. I love China. They made my Virtual Reality headset (HTC Vive), and they keep giving me free stuff to play. Oh no wait a minute, this isn't free, it's ten dollars. Hmm. I must have got this in a bundle, and so should you. This one is a nice skiing simulator, you can tell because it has 'skiing' in the name. It runs well and looks good. and was immersive. The music is funky too! I guess I will rate it positively, even though it is overpriced. wait for the balance patch. AstroPop Deluxe is one of the seemingly forgotten and less popular PopCap games that was a match-four before the days of money grabbing mobile games. It still has that 90s feel while also easily appealing to those who have only ever played these sorts of strategy games outside of the mobile market, and still holds up fairly well to this day, as it usually is with PopCap's titles.

You start out by playing as one of two astronauts, each of them going out to save one of the other two astronauts available. The "story" itself only takes a couple hours to get through, detailing the quest of the two starter characters to save their friends, after which endless mode unlocks. Each character has a special ability that can be unlocked to help you clear waves of ever increasing and ever changing blocks. The gameplay is fairly simple, attach colored blocks from the playing field to your spaceship and launch them at other blocks to make a match, clearing the path for your ship to move forward. Certain blocks have special abilities to help you clear your way, and other blocks only exist to halt your progress further. AstroPop is one of those games that goes on endlessly, as long as you have the skill to keep up with levels that increase in difficulty.

The gameplay is very solid for a 12 year old game - simple enough to be accesable to everyone yet challenging enough that there is a challenge for those who want one. The sound effects and visuals are really easy to just get lost in, with vibrant colors and particle effects on large combos and matches. It's a very flashy, vibrant and visually appealing game with shape modes for those with colorblindness. The sound effects and combo noises paired with the visual effects make it all the more satisfying when a good match is made, and doesn't interrupt the flow of the gameplay just for flair.

AstroPop makes a cute game for all ages, simple enough to play but with a strategy curve to master. I first played this years ago as a young child, and could see children today still enjoying this game and its simple mechanics, as well as the adults that grew up in this era of computer gaming. As with all of PopCap's games, AstroPop is fairly cheap on Steam and offers an endless strategy experience for anyone who enjoys these mobile-esque games. For puzzle and strategy lovers of all ages, I highly recommend picking this game up, even if on a sale, and giving it a try.. this is a review for someone without the nostalgia goggles on. I never played this game as a kid and only picked it up because I've seen it on the store front a lot of times.

I'll start off by saying that the graphics hold the standard of a Bootleg steam Greenlit game. not the best. the screenshots arent that accurate. for a game released in 2017 its real bad, but Im guessing they were going for a nostalgic feel.

the damage model is quite nice, not FO1-UC nice, but its good.

now, to the bad part. the handling and the rubberbanding AI.

the handling is actually so bad and unpredictable that im not able to enjoy the game because I feel cheated. half the time the car doesnt act the way you feel it should. it feels off. its an arcade game yes, but games like TM and FO gets it right. this game does not. Its clunky, unresponsive, and downright offputting.

would I recommend the game if it went for sale for $2? yes. you could probably get 1-2hrs of fun out of it before you start to notice the glaring issues.

more than $5? absolutely not.. This is a walking simulator/narrative game where you photograph things to move the story along.

It's done with Unity, but for a low budget indy game, at least it's not a 2D pixel platformer.

Unfortunately there's a few bugs and glitches, and some risk of CTD.

Not worth the $7 they're asking for it, but at least they tried to do something different.. nice blast to the past. The Dodos sip the dumb juice and yet despite all that the burden of their rescue relies on you, as they plod quickly to their extinction. 10/10 Fun, lemmings like mobile game with borrowed angry birds assets.

Most of it doesn't work or is online only - where there are no games being hosted anyway. Yaaay.. Great game, really surprised me with this one.. Nova introdu\u00e7\u00e3o de ra\u00e7a jogavel com visual bastante atractivo. De resto nada de novo, 3 missoes desinteressantes nas quais uma \u00e9 copia da ultima miss\u00e3o. Apesar disso vale pela nova ra\u00e7a jogavel.. why i cant play multiplayer??. Nice graphics, nice soundtrack, nice game-mechanics.. This is a RPG game. Not my type but not that bad either so if you like RPG you should try it. My score

Gameplay 7/10

Graphics 7/10

Sounds 5/10

Summary 19/30. STAY AWAY HTC VIVE OWNERS TYPICAL OCULUS MOTION SICKNESS 10/10 AFTER 2 MINS.

well i think the idea is awesome but the controls with the xbox controller isn't to clever i must say, this game is an oculus game so you will feel very very sick within 2 mins for you vive people. i can walk around playing room scale vive games alday but this really does turn your stomach. i found that i had to sit down in the middle of the room for me to be in the plane so could do with a button to move it to were you are in the room not just 1 fixed place. refund time but il let my friends have ago first make them sick and show them why not to own a oculus. sound effects are good tho thats the + guys!. Playing Season Witch is the most fun I have ever had in a match 3 game. Instructions are simple: tap the same color items and watch the fun as you tap endless combos. Simple. The power ups in the game are the most unique I have ever seen in a match 3 game. The graphics are pretty and matching items makes a lot of different sounds depending on the missions. Music is decent for a match 3 game.

There are 3 modes: Arcade, Quest, and Trophy. All modes are fun especially Arcade. The only complaint is that the game is short. I beat it in four hours, but it does have a lot of replayability. Awesome game. 10/10.
